LEARNING

Grade 8: Module 1: Unit 2: Lesson 11

Close Reading: Paragraphs 2 and 3 of “Refugee and Immigrant Children: A Comparison” and Introducing the NYS Expository Writing Rubric

Long-Term Targets Addressed (Based on NYSP12 ELA CCLS)

- I can cite text-based evidence that provides the strongest support for an analysis of literary text. (RI.8.1)
- I can determine a theme or the central ideas of an informational text. (RI.8.2)
- I can analyze the structure of a specific paragraph in a text (including the role of particular sentences in developing and refining a key concept). (RI.8.5)
- I can read above-grade informational texts with scaffolding and support. (RI.8.10)

Supporting Learning Targets

- I can find the gist of Paragraphs 2 and 3 of “Refugee and Immigrant Children: A Comparison.”
- I can analyze how specific words, phrases, and sentences help me understand what refugee and immigrant children need for successful adaptation.
- I can read a text closely in order to answer text-dependent questions.

Ongoing Assessment

- “Refugee and Immigrant Children: A Comparison”: Paragraphs 2 and 3 Text-Dependent Questions, Part A

Agenda

1. Opening
 - A. Engaging the Reader: Pages 248–260 of Inside Out & Back Again (5 minutes)
 - B. Unpacking Learning Targets (2 minutes)
2. Work Time
 - A. Reading Aloud and Rereading for Gist: Paragraphs 2 and 3 of “Refugee and Immigrant Children: A Comparison” (8 minutes)
 - B. Rereading and Text-Dependent Questions (15 minutes)
 - C. Introducing NYS Grade 6–8 Expository Writing Evaluation Rubric, Row 1 (10 minutes)
3. Closing and Assessment
 - A. Analyzing the Model Essay Using the Rubric (5 minutes)
4. Homework
 - A. We discussed what adaptation means in this lesson. Complete the homework question at the bottom of the “Refugee and Immigrant Children: A Comparison”: Paragraphs 2 and 3 Text-Dependent Questions, Part A.

Teaching Notes

- This lesson introduces students to the second and third paragraphs of “Refugee and Immigrant Children: A Comparison” in the informational text “Refugee Children in Canada: Searching for Identity,” which describes factors that make adaptation successful for refugee and immigrant children.
- This lesson is similar in format to Lesson 9, in which students read the first paragraph of this section of text for gist and answered text-dependent questions to dig deeper into the vocabulary and content.
- In Advance: Review the second and third paragraphs of the “Refugee and Immigrant Children: A Comparison” section, as well as the note-catchers in both this lesson and Lesson and 12.
- Remind students that close reading is a challenge. They can all do it by working at it, and they will rise to the challenge.
- This lesson introduces students to the NYS Expository Writing Evaluation Rubric, which has a great deal of academic vocabulary. Students are given a Writer’s Glossary (also used in seventh grade). If students have had seventh grade Module 1, they will be more familiar with these terms and concepts. Make clear that these are words they will come back to throughout the year as they develop as writers; this lesson is just a preliminary exposure (or a review, if they learned the terms in seventh grade).
- Post: Inside Out and Back Again anchor charts, learning targets.

Lesson Vocabulary	Materials
adaptation, at large, to a larger extent, persecution, prolonged stays, atrocities	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Inside Out & Back Again (book; one per student)• Inside Out anchor chart and Back Again anchor chart (begun in Lesson 8)• Sticky notes (one per student)• “Refugee and Immigrant Children: A Comparison” (from Lesson 9)• “Refugee and Immigrant Children: A Comparison”: Paragraphs 2 and 3 Text-Dependent Questions, Part A (one per student and one to display)• NYS Grade 6–8 Expository Writing Evaluation Rubric (one per student and one to display)• Document camera• Writer’s Glossary for Row 1 of the NYS Writing Rubric (one per student)• Model Essay: “How Ha’s Mother Is Turned ‘Inside Out’” (from Lesson 8; one per student and one to display)

Opening	Meeting Students’ Needs
A. Engaging the Reader: Pages 248–260 of Inside Out & Back Again (5 minutes) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Be sure students have their texts Inside Out & Back Again. Invite students to sit in Numbered Heads groups. Be sure the Inside Out and Back Again anchor charts are posted where students can see them. • Give students sticky notes. Invite them to record the strongest piece of evidence they found from pages 248–260 that reveals an aspect of Ha’s dynamic character. Ask: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> * “How is Ha changing?” • Then probe: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> * “Does your evidence show Ha turning inside out or back again? Why?” • Invite students to put their sticky note on the anchor chart to which their evidence is most relevant. • Review three of the sticky notes with the whole group. As a class, discuss: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> * “Why is this strong evidence that reveals an aspect of Ha’s dynamic character?” * “Do you think these three sticky notes have been placed on the appropriate anchor chart? Why or why not?”
B. Unpacking Learning Targets (2 minutes) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Focus students on the three learning targets, which are very similar to those from Lesson 9. Tell students that this lesson will be very much like what they did with the first paragraph several days ago. They will keep digging in to the next two paragraphs of the informational text. Ask the class to Think-Pair-Share: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> * “Why is focusing on specific words, phrases, or sentences important??” • Listen for students to recognize that paying attention to specific vocabulary helps them not only make sense of the text as a whole, but also helps them really think about important concepts about the world. • Ask: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> * “How might reading more of this informational text continue to help us understand Ha better?” • Listen for: “By reading this text, we are building knowledge about the universal refugee experience of turning inside out and back again. This is what Ha is going through.” • Remind students that this information helps them learn about the world and will be important when they write their end of unit assessment essay. Ha is just one unique (fictional) example of the universal refugee experience. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Learning targets are a research-based strategy that helps all students, but helps challenged learners the most. • Posting learning targets for students allows them to reference them throughout the lesson to check their understanding. The learning targets also provide a reminder to students and teachers about the intended learning behind a given lesson or activity.

Work Time	Meeting Students’ Needs
A. Reading Aloud and Rereading for Gist: Paragraphs 2 and 3 of “Refugee and Immigrant Children: A Comparison” (8 minutes) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Invite students to get into Numbered Heads groups with numbers 1 and 2 pairing up and numbers 3 and 4 pairing up. • Display the second and third paragraphs of the section “Refugee and Immigrant Children: A Comparison” (pages 589 and 590) and invite students to refer to their own texts. Remind them that when a text is challenging, it is often helpful to chunk it into smaller sections. Today, they will hear you read the next couple of paragraphs of this section of the text and, as they did in Lesson 9, they will have time to think, talk, and annotate for gist. • Read Paragraph 2 in this section aloud as students read silently. • Invite students to reread the paragraph silently. • Ask students to Think-Pair-Share: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> * “So what is this paragraph of the text mostly about?” • Invite students to annotate Paragraph 2 for the gist based on their pair discussion. • Invite volunteers to share their gist with the whole group. Listen for: “The factors that make refugee and immigrant children adapt successfully.” • Read Paragraph 3 in this section aloud as students read silently. • Invite students to reread the paragraph silently. • Ask students to Think-Pair-Share: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> * “So what is this paragraph of the text mostly about?” • Invite students to annotate Paragraph 3 for the gist based on their pair discussion. • Invite volunteers to share their gist with the whole group. Listen for: “The factors that affect the adaption of refugee children more than immigrant children.” 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Asking students to identify challenging vocabulary helps them to monitor their understanding of a complex text.

Work Time	Meeting Students’ Needs
B. Rereading and Text-Dependent Questions (15 minutes) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Refocus the group. Display and distribute the “Refugee and Immigrant Children: A Comparison”: Paragraphs 2 and 3 Text-Dependent Questions, Part A. • Reread the first sentence of Paragraph 2 of this section of the text: “Successful adaptation can bring with it the opportunity for growth.” • Focus on the first text-dependent question: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Invite students to read the question with you. 2. Direct their attention to the part of the text that the vocabulary was taken from so they can read it in context. 3. Invite pairs to discuss what they think the answer might be. 4. Invite pairs to record their ideas on their text-dependent questions handout. 5. Select a Numbered Head to share his or her answer with the whole group and clarify what it means where necessary. 6. Invite students to revise their notes where they are incorrect. • Ensure that students have a thorough understanding of what adaptation means before moving on, as understanding what this word means is crucial to understanding the two paragraphs. • Repeat the same process for Questions 2–4. • Reread these sentences from the third paragraph: “First, refugee children often have experienced the tragedy and trauma of war, including persecution, dangerous escapes, and prolonged stays in refugee camps. Some have witnessed killings, torture, and rape—including atrocities against family members.” • Ask students to Think-Pair-Share: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> * “What does persecution mean?” • Students will not be able to figure this out from the context. Some may already know the meaning; if not, either tell them or invite a student to look it up in a dictionary. • Repeat the numbered questioning process above for the final text-dependent questions. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Hearing a complex text read slowly, fluently, and without interruption or explanation promotes fluency for students: They are hearing a strong reader read the text aloud with accuracy and expression, and are simultaneously looking at and thinking about the words on the printed page. Set clear expectations that students read along silently as you read the text aloud. • To further support ELLs, consider providing definitions of challenging vocabulary in students’ home language. Resources such as Google Translate and bilingual translation dictionaries can assist with one-word translation. • Text-dependent questions can be answered only by referring explicitly to the text being read. This encourages students to reread the text for further analysis and allows for a deeper understanding.

Work Time	Meeting Students’ Needs
C. Introducing NYS Grade 6–8 Expository Writing Evaluation Rubric, Row 1 (10 minutes) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Distribute the NYS Grade 6–8 Expository Writing Evaluation Rubric. If possible, display a copy of the rubric on a document camera so that all students can see when you are circling vocabulary words and discussing the criteria. Tell students: “This is the rubric that New York State uses to look at student writing for sixth through eighth grades. This rubric tells what the state expects students your age to do when they write an essay. In the next few lessons, you are going to learn what is in this rubric. Then we will use it as you write your essay. By doing this, you will have inside information to become a great writer.” • Ask students to partner up with someone in their Numbered Heads group. Tell the pairs to read only the first row of the rubric and circle words they do not know or are unsure about. • Call on several pairs to share the words they identified. Circle these words on your copy on the document camera. Expect that they will not know the meanings of these vocabulary words: content, extent, conveys, compelling, task, insightful, comprehension, logically, and its opposite, illogically. Do not define the words yet. • Distribute the Writer’s Glossary for Row 1 of the NYS Writing Rubric. Point out to students that certain vocabulary words are bolded and defined. • Discuss and illustrate the definitions of the words already on the page and add any others that students contribute. (See Writer’s Glossary page for Row 1 for definitions.) Students may know some of these words used in other ways, so be sure that they understand them as they are used to refer to writing in the rubric. • Tell students that these are sophisticated words and concepts about writing, and that they will continue to work to understand what these mean throughout the year. Applying criteria to a model often helps make the criteria clear. That is what they will do next.

Closing and Assessment	Meeting Students' Needs
A. Analyzing the Model Essay Using the Rubric (5 minutes) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Tell the class: “Now we are going to use the model essay to understand what the rubric is saying writers should do.” Explain that the first row across on the rubric describes how a writer introduces the topic of an essay. Say something like: “We need to look closely at how an essay would follow what the rubric describes so that you know what you have to do to write an effective essay. We are going to be using the model essay to do that.” • Tell students that the numbered boxes on the rubric describe how well an essay follows the criteria in the left-hand column (be sure students are clear that columns are the lines from left to right, and rows are the lines from top to bottom). Box 4 describes the best essay, so we will look at the model essay to see what this description means. Read aloud Level 4 and say: “This means that the essay should start by telling the reader what the topic will be, but saying it in a way that is interesting so the reader wants to read the rest.” • Display Model Essay: “How Ha’s Mother Is Turned ‘Inside Out’” (from Lesson 8) and invite students to refer to their own text. Ask: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> * “Does this paragraph introduce the topic in an interesting, compelling way? If so, what words or phrases spark the reader’s interest?” • Listen for: “Words like ‘afraid,’ ‘fleeing,’ and being ‘turned inside out’ make the essay sound like it is about scary experiences, which makes it sound interesting.” • Invite students to reread the rest of the essay to see if they think the writer knows the book well. How can they tell? With their partner, they should find three things in the essay that show the writer knows the book. Ask them to number these three items in the margin of their copies of the model essay. • Once they have finished, cold call several pairs to see what they have selected. Then say: “So the model essay does follow the best description of the rubric. It tells the topic early in an interesting way, and it shows that the writer understood the book well. These are two things you want to do in your own essays.” • Remind students that they will work more with this model and rubric in future lessons; be sure they file away these key resources.
